

Directions

Glinkastraße 24, 10117 Berlin

Anreise mit dem Flugzeug
Vom Flughafen Tegel:
Bus TXL bis Haltestelle S- und U-Bahnhof
Brandenburger Tor

S-Bahn-Linien

S 1, S 2 und S 25: Bahnhof Brandenburger Tor

U-Bahn-Linien

U 2: Bahnhöfe Mohrenstraße oder Stadtmitte
U 6: Bahnhöfe Französische Straße oder Stadtmitte
U 55: Bahnhof Brandenburger Tor

Bus-Linien

TXL, 100: Haltestelle Brandenburger Tor/Glinkastraße
100, 147, 200, TXL: Haltestelle Unter den Linden/ Friedrichstraße
200: Haltestelle U-Bahnhof Mohrenstraße
147: Haltestelle U-Bahnhof Französische Straße

Expert meeting on the prevalence of sexual abuse

10. Dezember 2014

17.00 – 20.00 Uhr

Bundesministerium für Familie, Senioren, Frauen und Jugend

Glinkastraße 24, D-10117 Berlin

Raum A 1.07

Unabhängiger Beauftragter
für Fragen des sexuellen
Kindesmissbrauchs

Kinder- und Jugendpsychiatrie/ Psychotherapie

Universitätsklinikum Ulm

Dear colleagues,

Prevention of child sexual abuse and successful interventions need a sound data-base. In Germany, the so called “sexual abuse scandal” in 2010 and subsequent political debate at the “Round Table Sexual Abuse” revealed the need for nationally representative and reliable epidemiological data on the prevalence and incidence of child sexual abuse. Furthermore, a reliable national overview on service utilization for sexually abused children is lacking.

During the next year a research team at the University of Ulm will prepare a report to the Independent Commissioner of the German Government on the current state of epidemiological research on child sexual abuse in Germany and future needs related to surveillance of this field. In this context, we have invited three outstanding experts and researchers in this field:

Prof. David Finkelhor, University of New Hampshire, has written a seminal work on child sexual abuse in 1984 and is a leading expert on the topic ever since. The Canadian Incidence Study on Reported Child Abuse and Neglect is one of the rare examples of nationally representative agency surveys in the field; Nico Tromc  has been the principle investigator for the 1998, 2003 and 2008 cycle. Carl G ran Svedin has been pioneering child sexual abuse research in Europe.

The short symposium will be take place on Wednesday evening, December 10, from 5 p.m. and 8 p.m at the Ministry of Family, Senior Citizens, Women and Youth, Glinkastr e 24, 10117 Berlin.

In addition to the expert board of the Independent Commissioner, researchers and practitioners in the areas of prevention, counseling and treatment are invited to attend and meet the experts from North America and Scandinavia.

We kindly ask for your registration at kjp.tagungen@uniklinik-ulm.de, CME credit points have been requested at the Berliner  rztchamber.

Johannes-Wilhelm R rig

J rg M. Fegert

Program

17.00 – 17.05	Welcome address – Johannes-Wilhelm R�rig
17.05 – 17.10	Introduction – Prof. J�rg M. Fegert
17.10 – 17.50	Prof. David Finkelhor, University of New Hampshire, USA „Child Sexual Abuse: Using Research to Prevent and Protect“
17.50 – 18.00	Questions
18.00 – 18.40	Prof. Nico Trocm�, McGill School of Social Work, Montreal, Qu�bec, Canada “From cross-sectional case counts to tracking trajectories and outcomes; challenges in building research capacity in child protection agencies”
18.40 – 18.50	Questions
18.50 – 19.00	Short break
19.00 – 19.40	Prof. Carl G�ran Svedin, Link�pings universitet Institutionen f�r klinisk och experimentell medicin, Barn- och ungdomspsykiatri Link�ping, Sweden “Epidemiology, trauma care and service utilization – a Scandinavian perspective”
19.40 – 19.50	Questions
19.50 – 20.00	Final statement by J�rg M.Fegert